Wednesday

it all started when I was walking with my mom it was like an exercise I have a fear of dogs (Active dog) I was playing a song on my phone and wearing headphones I was so distracted when suddenly a huge dog ran towards me I didn't see him coming he jumped at me, when I saw him I said "ahhh help me" I was so scared it was like 6:30 pm everyone heard my scream but everyone laughed and said to me "it has an owner don't worry" they said then the owner pulled the dog towards him I thank him and we shake hands then we continued to walk and my mother and I started to laugh at what happened and that embarrassing moment kindly made my day Then my mom wanted a drink so we went to a cafe and I ordered a drink that I saw on Instagram and my mom ordered coffee my mom's order took like 3 min but mine took like 30-40 min to come and it looked different than the photo so I shouted at the worker and told him "I ordered something and it took 30-40 min plus it is not the same drink that I want!" so he told me "this is the drink that you order that photo is a lie" everyone was looking at me and it was so embarrassing my face turned red and I ran to the car laughing and crying at the same time and I said to my self "I have to be nicer and get rid of some fears".
